

Returning Employees to Work As COVID-19 Restrictions Ease

As the country sets its sights on efforts to recover from the COVID-19 pandemic and reopen the economy, a critical element will be reopening businesses and putting employees back to work.

This webinar covered best practices and some of the most significant problem areas for small businesses to be aware of as they plan to bring employees back into the workplace.

Jim Hammerschmidt, Chair of Employment Law, and Jessica Summers, Employment Law Principal, discussed these emerging topics on Tuesday, May 19, 2020.
