

Paley Rothman Adds Three Partners, Three Associates, and Opens Office in Northern Virginia

BETHESDA, MD (March 6, 2019) – Paley Rothman announces the addition of three new principals, three associates, and the opening of a Northern Virginia office. Eva Juncker and Lynette Kleiza join the Family Law Practice, and Scott Mirsky joins the Employment Law Practice. With their experience, the firm gains deeper capabilities in legal representation for LGBTQ individuals and families, as well as in advising and litigating employment, business and construction disputes.

"This expansion is exciting because we are broadening our services to clients and widening our geographic reach," says Co-President Robert Maclay. "As we welcome new principals Eva, Lynette, and Scott, attorneys of such deep experience and diversity, our clients gain an advantage, our communities thrive, and Paley Rothman grows even stronger."

Chaired by Carlos Lastra and Tracey Coates, the Family Law practice covers the full spectrum of family law and domestic relations issues, from the most complex cases to relatively simple uncontested matters. The firm recently welcomed former Prince George's County Assistant State's Attorney Geonard Butler II and former Maryland Public Defender Robert Goodis to the Family Law and Litigation practice groups as associates.

The Employment Law practice, chaired by firm Co-President James Hammerschmidt, helps employers in managing personnel and employment matters, complying with labor and employment laws, and preempting employment-related legal problems so that they can avoid or minimize costly disputes, litigation or liability. Hayes Edwards is joining the Employment and Litigation practices as an associate.

"We recognize that everyone wins when our workplaces are diverse and inclusive," says Hammerschmidt. "We innovate and prosper when we draw on a greater number of perspectives and ideas and have a better understanding of the people in our communities."
